

Don Frazier - HoF - 1995

In his long fast-pitch softball career, Don Frazier was a member of five International Softball Congress World Champions, including a unique run in which he played for a different winning ISC World Series teams three straight years.

He played for 1971 Long Beach Nitehawks, where the infielder was named All-World, hit .455 and drove in a tourney-high five runs; the 1972 team representing Burbank; and the 1973 Lakewood Jets, where he again led the tourney in RBI.

His play led him to be named to the ISC Hall of Fame in 1995. "Don was a great hitter and had a great glove," teammate Ron Rupe said. "He hit and played defense in the clutch. He was also one of the nicest guys you'll ever meet."
